ALEX AND PANCHO HAVE A SORE THROAT

We value generosity, sharing with others and looking after others.

Alex woke up with a sore throat this morning. He's in bed coughing, buried under a pile of blankets.

"What's wrong?" asked Pancho looking worried.

"I'm ill. The doctor is coming to see me now," answered Alex from under the covers.

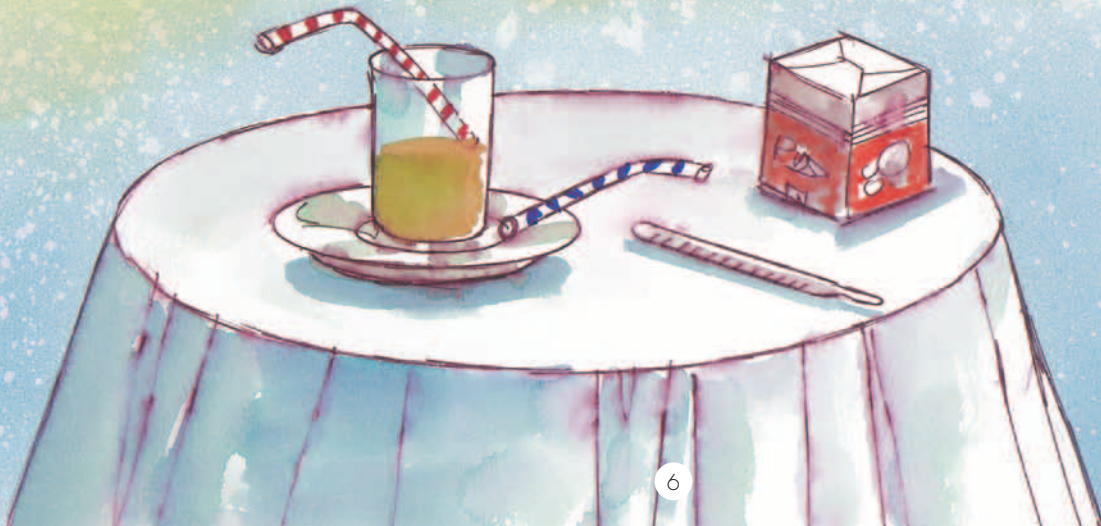

The doctor is here. Pancho is a bit afraid and he's shaking behind the curtains.

"Relax, Pancho, doctors are good. They make us well when we are ill."

"This boy has tonsillitis and a sore throat. You must take a little medicine, rest and lots of orange juice," said the doctor.

Pancho got into bed with Alex to keep him company while he was ill. His mother came into the room. "Here's some orange juice with honey." Mum was very caring and she looked after him a lot. She then tucked him in, ruffled his hair and gave him a kiss on his forehead.

Pancho wanted to look after Alex too and he kept him warm with his great big tummy. From being so close to Alex, he got a sore throat too.

"I got tonsillitis from you and I don't want to see the doctor", said Pancho frightened.

"Not to worry, I will look after you and we'll share my orange juice", said Alex.

Then they each drank juice using a coloured straw.
